Wellbeing Breaks in the Classroom
A PROACTIVE WAY TO ENHANCE STUDENT WELLBEING.

The Wellbeing Break Initiative encourages the integration of brief movement or wellbeing breaks throughout the day to reduce sedentary behaviour and improve physical and mental wellbeing in the UBC community.

What is the Wellbeing Break Initiative?
We are partnering with groups across campus to pilot the Wellbeing Break Initiative. The Wellbeing Break Initiative is a commitment to provide a wellbeing break every 60-minutes in seated meetings, classes, or gatherings. Breaks could include anything from a guided movement break, an opportunity for social connection, or a mindful moment. We aim to pilot this initiative for the 2023-2024 school year with interested departments. The long term goal is to integrate this commitment across the university.

What Could a Wellbeing Break Look Like?

- Request a movement break from the Move U Crew (Vancouver or Okanagan).
- Do some deskercises.
- Show one of UBC Rec’s movement break videos.
- Request a live wellness moment.
- Lead an icebreaker promoting social connection.
- Get creative and create your own wellbeing break.
- Guide your class through a mindful moment.
- Show one of UBC Rec’s movement break videos.
- Guide your class through a mindful moment.

Several studies have found that brief breaks during lectures have cognitive, emotional, and physical benefits.

Why Should We Provide Wellbeing Breaks?

- According to the 2021 Canadian Campus Wellbeing Survey, 85% of UBC students are currently not meeting the sedentary behaviour recommendation of the Canadian 24-Hour Movement Guidelines.
- Additionally, 47% of UBC students are considered to have low mental wellbeing according to a 14-item measurement tool.
- Providing your students with just a 5-minute break in class can also reduce stress, improve productivity, improve mood, and ultimately improve mental wellbeing.
- Signing onto the initiative demonstrates your department’s commitment to championing wellbeing in the classroom.
